THE FAMILY ESTATES OF GAJA

In 1859, the Gaja family established the tradition to which they have adhered ever since – total dedication to uncompromising quality. For five generations, they have been producing some of the most sought after, highly acclaimed, and collectable wines in the world. Gaja Estates in Piedmont, Italy, is the home to Gaja Winery, owning 240 acres of vineyard land in Barbaresco and Barolo, with a commitment to producing wines of the highest quality exclusively from their own vineyards.

In 1994, the Gaja family acquired their first wine estate in Tuscany, named Pieve Santa Restituta in Montalcino, which has been making wine since the 12th century. In 1996, the Gaja family purchased a second property in the Bolgheri district of Tuscany, named Ca’Marcanda, “House of Endless Negotiations”. Along the Tuscan Coast, this would become the home of their famed Super Tuscans. In 2017, Angelo Gaja and Alberto Graci started a new winery in Mt. Etna, Sicily, named “IDDA”, which means “She” in the local dialect. These are complex wines that express the ancient soils of the southern slope of Mt. Etna, as well as Angelo Gaja’s long-lived vision of excellence.

WINES BY DAVE PHINNEY

A true iconoclast in the winemaking world and 2019's Winemaker of the Year, Dave Phinney has consistently received critical acclaim for his show-stopping, boundary-breaking wines vintage after vintage. After humble beginnings as a harvest worker at Robert Mondavi, he founded Orin Swift Cellars. Soon after, he created the cult classic, The Prisoner, taking the world by storm and putting premium domestic red blends on the map.

Today, Dave continues innovating as the winemaker for Orin Swift, while simultaneously expanding his reach worldwide into Department 66, L'Usine, Locations, and beyond. His wines are unique, bold, and unapologetic, much like the labels that he designs himself. His approach to winemaking is much akin to our approach to food: sourcing the very best ingredients and showcasing their beauty in the best possible way.
